President Watkins was asked, last night, concerning the report sent out from Anderson to the effect that President Meyers, of the Interstate League, had been quoted as saying that the territorial rights held by Watkins had expired, and the only way Indianapolis could become a member of the Interstate League was to purchase a franchise from one of the cities already in the league. CHICAGO, March 25.-A dispatch from Urbana, Ill., says: "If the other Western universities take to the new National League playing rules no more kindly than Illinois the example of the American League will be followed and the battle of the college diamonds fought out under the old laws. Practice contests on Illinois field have convinced Coach Huff and his men that the changes introduced by the magnates of the big league will work harm to collegiate baseball if adopted.
